

Praying

for difficult people

Use these 8 things as a guide to help you pray for the difficult people in your life.

1. Their Salvation

Jesus might be just what this difficult person needs! Make praying for their Salvation a priority (if they don't know Jesus).

2. Their Health

People that are in good health seem to have healthier attitudes. If someone is difficult to deal with, they might be just a little bit easier to handle if they are in good health. Pray they get sleep. Pray they eat correctly. Pray they stay fit.

3. Their Happiness

People that are happy seem to have a better attitude. Be sure to pray that your difficult people in life have some true joy come their way.

4. Their Guidance

People that are on the right track physically, workwise, financially, spiritually, and in all ways seem to be a little more centered, making getting along with them a little easier. Pray for guidance of the Lord for their lives. Pray that they are tender to the leading of the Holy Spirit.

5. Their Heart and Attitude

Your difficult person to deal with might have a heart issue that focusses out toward you and others. Pray for their heart. Pray for their attitude.

6. Their Blessings

Wanting good for our enemies is something that the Lord taught us. Pray that your difficult people would be abundantly blessed. A blessing can change someone's attitude in a heartbeat.

7. Their Relationships with Others

Sometimes people are difficult because they have had or are experiencing some difficult people in their own lives. Pray for their relationships between others. Pray that they move past any rocky relationships from their past.

8. Their Trials and Difficulties

Sometimes trials tend to make people sad, hurt, and ready to spew that hurt out to someone else. Pray for the Lord to help those difficult people handle any trials that come up in their lives.
